SOVIET WAR ENDED BRUSILOFF CLAIMS

Bolshevik War Leader Believes Wrangel's Defeat Will Bring Peace in Russia.

acre territory to Poland and spill much blood on both sides,' General Brusiloff was told of the latest casualty reports from the front howing that 10,000 of the best troops of the soviet army were slaughtered in one day's fighting while the Reds were storming Wrangel's defenses at Perekop at the northern end of the

Crimean peninsula. BIG LOSSES INEVITABLE,

"While I did not see the battlefield, I know the positions could not be taken without heavy loss of life." said General Brusiloff. "It was in evitable, because of the geographical position of the isthmus, as well as the strength of the fortifications, which had to be breached before Crimea could be penetrated."

General Brusiloff was asked if he thought that the anti-Bolshevik farces under General Petlura and General Balachovitch could menacthe security of the soviets. The veteran smiled as he replied:

"The first law of a successful general is to have an army. So far as I know, there is no army left to fight against the Red Army. As for Petlura, I know him slightly. never a military man. He was connected solely with the Zemstvos." "Do you think Poland will again go to war against Soviet Russia?" General Brusiloff was asked.

"Great Britain and France want a strong Poland, but if the Poles are elever, they will realize that they are atrong enough," replied the gen-"They have now taken from eral. Soviet Russia everything they will ever be able to take. If they aght Russia again they will dig their own

Moscow newspapers print long accounts of the final bat tles on the Crimean front. One head line will serve to give the tenor of the articles: "With their own bodies have the workers and peasant broken down the defenses of Wrangel."
